Psychodynamic Approaches for Treatment of Drug Abuse and Addiction
Theory and Treatment
David Potik
Provides clinicians and students with insights on the use of psychodynamic therapy to treat drug abuse and addiction, combining theory with clinical case material. The perspectives of a wide range of analysts are reviewed alongside original and more recent conceptualizations based on Kleinian, Winnicottian and Kohutian ideas. The clinical case material covers common issues such as projective identification, countertransference difficulties, and relapses. Prevalent topics in the addiction field are also discussed in relation to psychodynamic therapy, such as the reward system, the cycle of change and the twelve-step program.

Understanding Forgiveness and Addiction
Theory, Research, and Clinical Application
Jon R. Webb
This book integrates and synthesizes numerous empirically supported positive psychological constructs and psychotherapeutic theories to help understand addiction. Proposing forgiveness as an alternative and critical tool to understanding the process of addiction and recovery, whether in the context of substance use, compulsive behavior, and/or suicidal behavior, the book discusses multiple theoretical points of view regarding the process of forgiveness. The text’s comprehensive integration of theory, research, and clinical application, including guidelines regarding forgiveness as a treatment method, provide a roadmap forward for addiction counselors and other recovery specialists.

Clay Work and Body Image in Art Therapy
Using Metaphor and Symbolism to Heal

Trisha Crocker and Susan M.D. Carr

Clay Work and Body Image in Art Therapy provides an important addition to resources available in the field of clay work and art therapy, highlighting the unique sensory aspects of the medium and its ability to provide a therapeutic resource for women who experience body image issues. Chapters offer a comprehensive distillation of current knowledge in the field of clay work, neuroscience, and art therapy, building a theoretical framework around personal narratives. This book highlights clay work as a significant resource for art therapists, and counsellors, providing an emotive yet contained approach to the development of personal body image acceptance and self-compassion.

Sensory-Based Relational Art Therapy Approach (S-BRATA)
Supporting Psycho-Emotional Needs in Children with Autism

Huma Durrani

This book bridges art therapy practice and research by presenting sensory-based relational art therapy approach (S-BRATA), a clinically tested framework for working with children with autism spectrum disorder (ASD) that explicitly addresses sensory dysfunction and its impact on impaired attachment. Clinicians, students, and parents alike will benefit from the text’s clear outline for relational development with individuals on the spectrum and its emphasis on the importance of the psycho-emotional health of a child with ASD.

Eco-Art Therapy in Practice

Amanda Alders Pike

Eco-Art Therapy in Practice is uplifting, optimistic, and empowering while outlining cost-effective, time efficient, and research-based steps on how to use nature in session to enhance clinician engagement and outcomes. Dr. Pike employs her background as a certified educational leader and board-certified art therapist to walk readers through establishing ecologically-based practices—such as growing art materials using hydroponics regardless of facility constraints. This text will help clinicians and educators employ eco-art therapy in practice, in turn empowering their clients and conveying an inclusive message of respect—respect for self, others, community, and the world.

Somatic Art Therapy
Alleviating Pain and Trauma through Art

Johanne Hamel

This book focuses on somatic art therapy for treating acute or chronic pain, especially resulting from physical and/or psychological trauma. It discusses the role of the psyche in physical healing and encourages combining of traditional medicine and holistic perspectives in treatment. Chapters review the current treatments for chronic pain and PTSD and focus on art therapeutic methods to treat those conditions. By providing a unique, clear and concise synthesis of available art therapy methods this text will appeal both to the general and professional public, including professional art therapists, psychotherapists, helping relation professionals, and medical practitioners.
An Autism Casebook for Parents and Practitioners

Shoshana Levin Fox

Drawing from the author’s extensive clinical experience, this autism casebook offers stimulating reflections and a fresh perspective on how we assess, diagnose, and ultimately treat young children thought to be autistic. An accessible mix of clinical insights, theoretical reflections and vivid case stories, this engaging casebook will stimulate practitioners, educators and students in the field of autism to question commonly held assumptions when assessing and treating autistic children, as it both urges and illustrates more reflective practice. Parents of children considered autistic will find renewed encouragement and hope in these enlightening case stories.

Choosing Effective Support for People on the Autism Spectrum

A Guide Based on Academic Perspectives and Lived Experience

Matthew Bennett, Emma Goodall and Jane Nugent

This book is essential for anyone interested in learning about the therapeutic potential of orthodox and state-of-the-art supports for autistics. Using research evidence, supports are rated using a Gold, Silver, Bronze, and Tin category system. ‘Gold’ is extremely promising and use with confidence, whereas ‘Tin’ is extremely unsafe and potentially life threatening. This book, however, is more complex than just presenting literature reviews about supports for autistics and then rating the efficacy of the support.

3rd Edition

Autistic States in Children

Frances Tustin

Series: Routledge Classics

Frances Tustin was internationally recognised for her pioneering work with autistic children, and her approach remains controversial as her psychogenic view of childhood autism challenged the belief that it is biological and genetic. Autistic States in Children is widely regarded as vital for understanding the causes of autism in young children. It influenced those in psychotherapy and psychoanalysis as well as countless others who have contact with autistic children. It remains essential reading for anyone seeking a creative and compelling understanding of autism.

This Routledge Classics edition includes a new foreword by Maria Rhode.

Child and Adolescent Psychotherapy

Making the Conscious Unconscious

Peter Blake

In this new edition Blake gives a personal account of his professional experience of working with children and adolescents over the last 45 years. Providing a wonderful integration of the conceptual and the practical, this book classifies complex theory while giving practical advice for clinicians through a nuts and bolts description of how to interview parents, emotionally assess a child and adolescent, set up a consulting room and conduct a therapy session. The addition of chapter summaries, questions and suggested further readings provide a valuable structure to those in child and adolescent training programmes.

Counseling Children and Adolescents

Cultivating Empathic Connection

Rebekah Byrd, Sacred Heart University, North Carolina, USA
and Chad Luke

Counseling Children and Adolescents focuses on relationship building and creating a deep level of understanding of developmental, attachment, and brain-based information. Chapters place a clear emphasis on building strengths and developing empathy, awareness, and skills. By going beyond theory, and offering a strengths-based, attachment, neuro- and trauma-informed perspective, this text offers real-world situations and tried and true techniques for working with children and adolescents. Grounded in research and multicultural competency, the book focuses on encouragement, recognizing resiliency, and empowerment.

Counseling Toward Solutions

A Practical, Solution-Focused Program for Working with Students, Teachers, and Parents

Linda Metcalf

This book provides a solution-focused approach to working alongside students, parents, and teachers that decreases misbehaviors, encourages mental health and growth in students, and provides social-emotional learning opportunities. Based on the notion that focusing on problems often leads to frustration when tried and true remedies fail, the book provides a three-step approach to having solution-focused conversations with students, parents, and in response to intervention and team meetings. Complete with specific dialogues and case studies, this text provides school counselors with a road map to looking beyond problems and seeking solutions with students, creating grit and resilience.

New Understandings of Twin Relationships
From Harmony to Estrangement and Loneliness
Barbara Klein, Stephen A. Hart and Jacqueline M. Martinez
This text takes an experience-based approach to exploring how twin attachment and estrangement can be critical to understanding all closely entwined personal relationships. Combining research with compelling vignettes, this book describes the inner workings of the twin world, showing the intense and intricately textured experiences of twins. Chapters debunk myths surrounding twinnship and analyze the developmental stages of the twin relationship as well as its effects on one’s mental health. The authors articulate how attachment, separation anxiety, estrangement, and the subjective experience of the twin and non-twin “other” impact behavior, thinking, and feeling.

Parenting and Childhood Memories
A Psychoanalytic Approach to Reverberating Ghosts and Magic Ilene S. Lefcourt
Parenting and Childhood Memories is a collection of psychoanalytic stories about the ways in which parents’ childhood memories influence their current interactions with their babies and young children: the ghosts and magic of our minds. Offering useful insights, readers will be intrigued by the details of the therapeutic process described and be inspired by the outcomes. This book will appeal to psychoanalysts, therapists, mental health professionals, and parents.

Psychoanalytic Perspectives on Puberty and Adolescence
The Inner Worlds of Teenagers and their Parents
Gertraud Diem-Wille
Puberty is a time of tumultuous transition from childhood to adulthood activated by rapid physical changes, hormonal development and explosive activity of neurons. This book explores puberty through the parent-teenager relationship, as a “normal state of crisis”, lasting several years and with the teenager oscillating between childlike tendencies and their desire to become an adult. It will be of great interest to psychoanalysts, psychotherapists, parents and carers, as well as all interacting with adolescents in self, family and society.

2nd Edition
Recognising Autism and Asperger’s Syndrome
A Practical Guide to Adult Diagnosis and Beyond
Trevor Powell, Berkshire Healthcare NHS Trust
Recognising Autism and Asperger’s Syndrome is an accessible guide, offering information and guidance, self-help and coping strategies and illustrated throughout with personal quotes, vignettes and anecdotes from clients with AS with whom the author has worked with clinically. The book is deliberately aimed at a broad audience of people: those who have just received a diagnosis and want to know more, those who are considering seeking a diagnosis, family members, relatives, friends and clinicians including mental health workers, psychologists, support workers and all those who work with people with AS.

Solution-Focused Play Therapy
A Strengths-Based Clinical Approach to Play Therapy
Elizabeth Kjellstrand Hartwig, Texas State University, USA
Solution-Focused Play Therapy is as essential text that blends the process of play therapy with solution-focused therapy. Clinicians will come away from the book with a suite of interventions, strategies, handouts, and forms that can be employed with children of all ages and their families, from strength-based assessment and treatment planning to the final celebration session.

Tackling Cyberbullying and Related Problems
Innovative Usage of Games, Apps and Manga
Edited by Yuichi Toda, Osaka Kyuiku University, Japan and Insoo OH, Ewha Womans University, South Korea
This book looks at innovative tools developed by Japanese and Korean researchers and practitioners to tackle cyberbullying and internet-related problems (addiction, cybercrimes etc). The contributors have created preventative and intervention measures for children using games, apps, manga and anime videos, which are more accessible for children than textbooks or classroom-based lessons. The contributors cover their experiences of developing these new approaches with children, parents and teachers as well as giving insights and evidence into how these innovative techniques and methods work.
Youth Mental Health
Approaches to Emerging Mental Ill-Health in Young People

Alison R. Yung, Jack Cotter and Patrick D. McGorry

This book highlights the field of youth mental health and why it is a specialty distinct from both child and adolescent, and adult mental health. Drawing on the knowledge and expertise of leading thinkers in youth mental health, this book is instrumental for mental health professionals who wish to design new specialised mental health systems for young people.

Coaching Systemically
Five Ways of Thinking About Systems

Paul Lawrence
Series: Essential Coaching Skills and Knowledge

This book provides an accessible and clear description of key theories of systemic coaching and how they can be applied to coaching practice. Structured around five different ways of thinking about systems, the book provides coaches with a high-level overview of different systems theories and how those theories may be applied in practice. Readers will walk away from the book with a clearer understanding of what it means to coach ‘systemically’ and new ideas as to how they can translate insights into practice. Coaching Systemically will be key reading for coaches in practice and in training, consultants and anyone interested in systemic approaches.

How Successful Leaders Do Business with Their World
The Navigational Stance

Stephen Barden
Series: Emerging Conversations in Leadership

In this rigorously researched book Stephen Barden presents compelling evidence that top leaders learn from a very early age to ‘do business with the world’ by using their power and authority to partner with it, rather than impose themselves on it. Based on interviews with military, corporate and educational leaders, the book offers powerful insight into how these findings can be applied in practice. This volume will be a valuable asset for coaches, leaders, HR and L&D professionals, and all professionals working with leaders.

Psychosynthesis Leadership Coaching
A Psychology of Being for a Time of Crisis
Aubyn Howard

Psychosynthesis Leadership Coaching responds to the call of coaches who want to be able to work with the whole person, with the inner as well as the outer worlds, and not just at rational and behavioural levels, but at emotional and spiritual levels as well.

This book introduces psychosynthesis coaching to a wider audience and provides a comprehensive guide to this approach for both coaches and leaders. This book provides the context, models, methods, skills and techniques for coaches to engage with their clients within the larger context of Self and Will, alongside working on inner and outer agendas and goals of any description.

Integrating CBT with Experiential Theory and Practice
A Group Therapy Workbook

Thomas W. Treadwell

This workbook elucidates the techniques clinicians will encounter using the Cognitive Experiential (psychodrama) Group Therapy (CEGT) model. This model incorporates cognitive behavioral and psychodrama interventions to help identify and modify negative thinking, behavior, and interpersonal patterns. The book begins with a brief overview of cognitive behavioral therapy (CBT) and psychodrama, moving on to provide a description of CEGT and what group members should expect through engagement in this therapy, highlighting relevant concepts and techniques. Featured throughout are tables and exercises and blank worksheets to help group members challenge dysfunctional thinking.

Contextual Behavior Therapy for Sexual and Gender Minority Clients

A Practical Guide to Treatment

Matthew D. Skinta, private practice, California, USA

Combining theory, research, and case studies, this book shows clinicians how to apply transdiagnostic contextual behavior approaches when working with sexual and gender minority (SGM) clients. The text first examines minority stress theory through the lens of contextual behavior analysis. Subsequent chapters illustrate the application of therapeutic techniques drawn from acceptance and commitment therapy, functional analytic psychotherapy, and compassion-focused therapy. Every chapter provides a series of diverse vignettes that illustrate how each aspect of treatment might build upon the last along with a list of recommended books for further exploration of that topic.

Men’s Accounts of Boarding School
Sent Away

Edited by Margaret Laughton, Allison Paech-Ujejski and Andrew Patterson

Men’s Accounts of Boarding School is a collection of writings by men about their childhood experiences of being sent away to boarding school. Much has been written about the adverse effects of early separation and broken attachments, and these men illustrate this research in their accounts. The book will be insightful and useful reading for therapists working with the issues of Boarding School Syndrome, as well as former boarders.

Living Beyond OCD Using Acceptance and Commitment Therapy
A Workbook for Adults

Patricia E. Zurita Ona

This user-friendly workbook serves as compact text for clinicians to use with clients suffering from obsessive-compulsive disorder (OCD) and also provides adults with OCD the tools they need to move beyond their disorder using acceptance and commitment therapy (ACT). Written from the office of a full-time therapist, in a simple, uncomplicated, and unpretentious manner, this workbook will be useful for all clients suffering from OCD and for therapists who work them.

Living Mindfully Across the Lifespan
An Intergenerational Guide

J. Kim Penberthy, University of Virginia School of Medicine and Health System and J. Morgan Penberthy

This book provides information about and answers to some of the most frequently encountered questions and dilemmas of human living, interactions, and emotions. With a mix of empirical data and personal insight, each chapter engages the reader on a significant topic, including self-worth, anxiety, depression, relationships, and loss, through personal stories and case studies interwoven throughout with the authors’ unique intergenerational perspectives. Compassionate, engaging writing is balanced with a straightforward presentation of research and practical strategies to help address issues via psychological, behavioral, contemplative, and movement-oriented exercises.

Practical Neurocounseling
Connecting Brain Functions to Real Therapy Interventions

Edited by Lori A. Russell-Chapin, Bradley University, Illinois, USA, Nicole C. Pacheco, Private practice, Illinois, USA and Jason A. DeFord, Private practice, Illinois, USA

Practical Neurocounseling demonstrates the importance of considering brain health in counseling, showing mental health professionals how to understand and assess the functioning of different parts of the brain without sophisticated software or intensive training. More than just a collection of techniques, Practical Neurocounseling is a valuable guide for clinicians interested in the relationship between brain activity and behavior. It’s also an ideal book for professors and students in any neurocounseling course and for clinicians working in talk therapy.

Uncommon Psychiatric Syndromes

David Enoch, Royal Liverpool University Hospital, UK, Basant K. Puri, Hammersmith Hospital and Imperial College London, UK and Hadrian Ball, Norfolk and Suffolk NHS Foundation Trust, UK

This new edition expands on the previous editions as a valued source of information regarding uncommon psychiatric syndromes. Each chapter goes into detail on the essential facts of the mentioned syndromes, thus giving the reader a clear understanding of the material. The last edition was well received and is widely considered a classic text for those in the field, though now it is an outdated source. Since the publication of the fourth edition, there have been many developments in the field of psychiatry, including changes in DSM-5, the advancement of neuroimaging and related research. Four new chapters will be added to the fifth edition and several new syndromes will be covered.

Adapting Evidence-Based Eating Disorder Treatments for Novel Populations and Settings

A Practical Guide

Edited by Christina C. Tortolani, Andrea B. Goldschmidt, The University of Chicago, USA and Daniel Le Grange

This comprehensive text provides practical approaches to adapting empirically supported eating disorder treatments for patients of diverse backgrounds and presentations, or within non-traditional treatment settings across levels of care. The book describes empirically and clinically informed treatment adaptations that impact delivery of real-world services for eating disorder patients. Each focusing on a specific population, setting, or training approach, chapters feature experts in developing, delivering, and testing interventions. Practical applications are then illustrated through case examples and wisdom gleaned through the contributors’ own clinical studies and experiences.

Psychodynamic Self Psychology in the Treatment of Anorexia and Bulimia

Analu Verbin and Eytan Bachar

This book presents an implementation of psychodynamic self psychology in the treatment of anorexia nervosa and bulimia nervosa. The book starts with an overview of the theory of self psychology and its specific application for the treatment of eating disorders. This theory is then integrated with compelling case studies contributed by eating disorder professionals to explore how the eating disordered patient is scared to take up space in a society that encourages precisely that. Psychotherapists and eating disorders professionals will benefit from the empirical capability of the theory to predict the development as well as remission from eating disorders.

Appetite

Sex, Touch, and Desire in Women with Anorexia

Melissa A. Fabello

The first comprehensive resource on anorexia and women’s sexuality in the world, this book presents a model for understanding sexuality as complex with interconnected factors, and how anorexia interacts with the varied components of one’s sexuality. Challenging the limiting views of sexuality that research on women with anorexia and sex has yielded, Dr. Fabello centers real women’s narratives to explore the various ways in which this population wrestles with sexual health, violence, intimacy, identity, and more. Written in an honest voice, Appetite bridges the gap between academia and practicality, using grounded language that appeals to professionals and survivors alike.

Multifamily Therapy Group for Young Adults with Anorexia Nervosa

Mary Tantillo, Jennifer L. Sanftner McGraw and Daniel Le Grange

This book describes an innovative family-centered outpatient Multifamily Therapy Group (MFTG) approach called Reconnecting for Recovery (R4R) for young adults with anorexia nervosa (AN) that is based on a relational reframing of eating disorders. Created in concert with young adults and their families, R4R is designed to help avoid or repair relationship ruptures for continued collaboration in recovery. The book begins by examining AN, MFTG approaches, and the development of R4R and moves into a session by session review of R4R featuring exercises and handouts. Protocols, case vignettes, and other materials help translate the theory and research underlying this model into practice.

Human Interaction and Emotional Awareness in Gestalt Therapy
Exploring the Phenomenology of Contacting and Feeling
H. Peter Dreitzel
Series: The Gestalt Therapy Book Series
Dreitzel’s conception of social change, with Gestalt therapy at its core, is relevant to all aspects of humanistic psychology. It elevates empathy, emotional development and the prevention of suffering at all levels of society, filling important gaps in Gestalt therapy theory and expanding it into exciting new territory. Human Interaction and Emotional Awareness in Gestalt Therapy will be essential reading for Gestalt therapists, other professionals with an interest in Gestalt approaches and readers interested in social interaction, climate change and the role of psychotherapy in a changing world.

A Psychoanalytical-Historical Perspective on Capitalism and Politics

Mino Vianello

Mino Vianello uses Radical Federalism to define a new approach to democracy, hoping for an end to the repetition of outdated political and economic ideals to solve the world's democratic crisis. The book brings together a multitude of disciplines and perspectives, including Marxism, history, class, feminism, politics, and empathy, to provide a comprehensive and honest history of power from the Enlightenment to present day. This interdisciplinary study will be key reading for academicians and scholars of Jungian studies, politics, sociology, history and economics.

C. G. Jung and the Alchemical Imagination

Passages into the Mysteries of Psyche and Soul

Stanton Marlan

Stanton Marlan brings together writings which span the course of his career, examining Jungian psychology and the alchemical imagination as an opening to the mysteries of psyche and soul. This volume challenges any tendency to literalism and essentialism, and contributes to an integration between Jung’s classical vision of a psychology of alchemy and Hillman’s Alchemical Psychology. C.G. Jung and the Alchemical Imagination will be a valuable resource for academics, scholars, and students of Jungian and post-Jungian studies, Jungian analysis, and psychotherapy. It will also be of great interest to Jungian psychologists and Jungian analysts in practice and in training.

Cultural Complexes in China, Japan, Korea, and Taiwan

Spokes of the Wheel

Edited by Thomas Singer

Thomas Singer presents a unique collection which examines cultural complexes in four parts of East Asia: China, Japan, Korea and Taiwan. From ancestor worship in China to the ‘Kimchi bitch’ meme of South Korea, the wounded feminine in Taiwan and hikikomori in Japan, the contributors take a Jungian lens to aspects of culture and shine a light on themes including gender, archetypes, consciousness, social roles, and political relations.

Depth Psychology and Climate Change

The Green Book

Edited by Dale Mathers, Supervisor with the Association of Jungian Analysts. Psychiatrist and humanistic psychotherapist in private practice, South London and teacher of analytical psychology in the UK and Europe.

Depth Psychology and Climate Change offers a sensitive and insightful look at how ideas from depth psychology can move us beyond psychological overwhelm when facing the ecological disaster of climate change and its denial. Integrating ideas from disciplines including anthropology, politics, spirituality, mythology and philosophy, contributors consider how climate change affects psychological wellbeing and how we can place hope and radical uncertainty alongside rage and despair.

Exploring Depth Psychology and the Female Self
Feminist Themes from Somewhere
Edited by Leslie Gardner and Catriona Miller
Exploring Depth Psychology and the Female Self: Feminist Themes from Somewhere presents a Jungian take on modern feminism, offering an international assessment with a dynamic political edge which includes perspectives from both clinicians and academics. Presented in three parts, this unique collection explores how the fields of gender and politics have influenced each other, how myth and storytelling craft feminist narratives and how public discussion can amplify feminist theory. Exploring Depth Psychology and the Female Self will offer insightful perspectives to academics and students of Jungian and post-Jungian studies, gender studies and politics.

From Vision to Folly in the American Soul
Jung, Politics and Culture
Thomas Singer
In From Vision to Folly in the American Soul, Thomas Singer collates his investigations into soul both in its personal and collective manifestations. This text is a valuable resource for academics and students of Jungian and post-Jungian ideas, politics, sociology, and American studies as well as for anyone interested in the current state of the US.

Intergenerational Complexes in Analytical Psychology
The Suffering of Ghosts
Samuel L. Kimbles
Intergenerational Complexes in Analytical Psychology: The Suffering of Ghosts explores the many ways that our internal lives are organized and patterned by cultural complexes, and how individual experiences are narrated by archetypal story formations, or ‘phantom narratives’.

Political Passions and Jungian Psychology
Social and Political Activism in Analysis
Edited by Stefano Carta
In this book, a multidisciplinary and international selection of Jungian clinicians and academics discuss some of the most compelling issues in contemporary politics. Ultimately, this book encourages analysts, scholars, psychotherapists, sociologists, and students to actively engage in shaping current and future political, socio-economic, and cultural developments in this increasingly complex and challenging time.

Projection and Personality Development via the Eight-Function Model
Carol Shumate
Jung considered personality development critical for the survival of the human race, not just for personal fulfillment, but how can personality be developed? Carol Shumate shows how John Beebe’s revolutionary eight-function/eight-archetype model of personality type can be applied to guide development for each of the sixteen Myers-Briggs types, making explicit the implications of Jung’s eight-function model. Based on reports from participants at Beebe’s workshops and using examples of historic figures like Abraham Lincoln, this is the first book to detail how the unconscious aspects of the functions tend to manifest for each type.

Psychogeotherapy
Revisioning Therapeutic Space
Maryna Chrześcińska, London Metropolitan University, UK
Series: Research in Analytical Psychology and Jungian Studies
Psychogeotherapy offers a critical exploration of the roles played by ideas of space and containment in psychotherapy. Employing approaches from psychogeography with a focus on the praxis of ‘aimless walking’, it explores alternate models of therapeutic space and what the author terms ‘psychogeotherapy’.

This book will be of great interest for academics, researchers, and post-graduate students in the fields of analytical psychology, psychotherapy, psychogeography and mental health.
The Absent Father Effect on Daughters
Father Desire, Father Wounds

Susan E. Schwartz, Jungian analyst, USA, IAAP, APA, NMSJA

This book investigates the impact of absent – physically or emotionally – and inadequate fathers on the lives and psyches of their daughters through the perspective of Jungian analytical psychology. It tells the stories of daughters who describe the insecurity of self, the splintering and disintegration of the personality, and the silencing of voice. It is relevant for those wanting to understand the complex dynamics of fathers and daughters to become their authentic selves and essential reading for those seeking understanding, analytical and depth psychologists, therapy professionals, academics and students with Jungian and post-Jungian interests.

The Mystical Exodus in Jungian Perspective
Transforming Trauma and the Wellsprings of Renewal

Shoshana Fershtman

The Mystical Exodus in Jungian Perspective explores the soul loss that results from personal, collective, and transgenerational trauma and the healing that unfolds through reconnection with the sacred. Personal narratives of disconnection from and reconnection to Jewish collective memory are illuminated by millennia of Jewish mystical wisdom, contemporary Jewish Renewal and feminist theology, and Jungian and trauma theory.

The Plural Turn in Jungian and Post-Jungian Studies
The Work of Andrew Samuels

Edited by Stefano Carpani

This unique book showcases the cutting-edge work of researchers in Jungian and post-Jungian studies, focusing on the advances being made at the University of Essex, UK, and operating as a festschrift for Professor Andrew Samuels. It both honours the work of Andrew Samuels and sets the foundations of an ‘Essex School’ of Jungian studies. A wide-ranging collection, this book will be essential for academics and scholars of Jungian and post-Jungian studies. It will also be a key title for all readers with an interest in the work of Andrew Samuels.

Vision, Reality and Complex
Jung, Politics and Culture

Thomas Singer

Series: Focus on Jung, Politics and Culture

Vision, Reality and Complex brings together a rich selection of Thomas Singer’s scholarship on the development of the cultural complex theory and explores the relationship between vision, reality and illusion in politics and psyche. This collection of essays demonstrates how the cultural complex theory applies in specific contexts while simultaneously having cross-cultural relevance through the reemergence of complexes throughout history. It is essential reading for academics and students of Jungian and post-Jungian ideas, politics, sociology and international studies as well as for practicing and trainee analysts alike.

Women and Dionysus
Appearances and Exile in History, Culture, and Myth

Maggy Anthony

Series: Routledge Focus on Analytical Psychology

This book links repression of the Dionysian spirit in Western culture with the rise of the patriarchy over the course of two millennia. It draws the connection between Dionysus and women throughout history, with examples from cultures both past and present, and the author’s own experiences. The book explores the Dionysian influence on creative older women, and considers connections to mysticism and the Renaissance. This study will be essential reading for scholars of Jungian and post-Jungian studies and for analytical and depth psychologists, particularly those with an interest in female individuation, creativity, and spirituality.

Working With Dreams
Initiation into the Soul’s Speaking About Itself

Wolfgang Giegerich

This book is about the practice of working with dreams. Rather than presenting a general theory about dreams, it focuses on the dream as phenomenon and raises the question how we must look at dreams if our approach is supposed to be a truly psychological one. So far most essays on, and the practice of, Jungian dream interpretation have paradoxically centered around the person of the dreamer and not around the dream itself.
Dolls, Photography and the Late Lacan
Doubles Beyond the Uncanny

Rosalinda Quintieri

Series: The Lines of the Symbolic in Psychoanalysis Series

In this fascinating new book, Rosalinda Quintieri addresses some of the key questions of visual theory concerning our unending fascination with simulacra by evaluating the recent return of the figure of the life-size doll in European and American visual culture. It will appeal to psychoanalysts and researchers from Lacanian psychoanalysis, visual studies and cultural theory, as well as readers with an academic interest in the cultural history of dolls and the theory of the uncanny.

Lacanian Psychoanalysis from Clinic to Culture

Berjanet Jazani

Series: The Centre for Freudian Analysis and Research Library (CFAR)

Using examples from cinema, artificial intelligence, and clinical and cultural references, the book covers major topics within the field, including dreams, the mirror phase, psychosis, hysteria, the position of the analyst, the drive, supervision and the symptom. Each is set within the context of our technologically oriented, market-based society and complemented with empirical vignettes. The book’s final section examines contemporary society and radicalization. Lacanian Psychoanalysis from Clinic to Culture is important reading for students and academics in Lacanian psychoanalysis, as well as those in fields concerned with complex social problems.

Hegelian-Lacanian Variations on Late Modernity

Spectre of Madness

Alirea Taheri

The current rise in new religions and the growing popularity of New Ageism is concomitant with an increasingly anti-philosophical sentiment marking our contemporary situation. Combatting this trend, this treatise develops a theoretical apparatus based on Hegelian speculative reason and Lacanian psychoanalysis.

Developing a unique dialectical theory based on readings of Hegel, Lacan and Zizek, in order to address various philosophical and psychoanalytic questions, this book will be of great interest to anyone interested in German idealism and/or psychoanalytic theory.

Studying Lacan’s Seminar VI

Dream, Symptom, and the Collapse of Subjectivity

Olga Cox Cameron and Carol Owens

Series: Studying Lacan’s Seminars

The second volume in Studying Lacan’s Seminars series, this book is the first comprehensive study of Lacan’s Seminar VI Desire and its Interpretation. A natural companion to Bruce Fink’s recent translation of the seminar into English (2019), this book offers a genuine opportunity to delve deeply into the seminar, and a hospitable introduction to Lacan’s teachings of the 1950s.

The book is of great interest to Lacanian scholars and students, as well as psychoanalytic therapists and analysts interested in Lacan’s teachings of the 1950s and in how important concepts developed during this period are treated in his later work.

Lacan and Critical Feminism

Subjectivity, Sexuation, and Discourse

Rahna McKey Carusi

Series: The Lines of the Symbolic in Psychoanalysis Series

This book takes a critical feminist approach to Lacan’s fundamental concepts, merging discourse and sexual theories in a novel way for both psychoanalysis and feminism, and exploring the possibility of a feminist subject within a non-masculine logic. The book revisits Lacan’s concept of Woman and considers the impact of tropes, drawing examples from across the arts, as well as women’s studies and socio-political movements. The book is divided into four primary chapters and includes two interludes, which tie together complex concepts and apply the theory before moving forward. It represents essential reading for researchers interested in the relationship between Lacan and feminist theory.

Beyond Clinical Dehumanisation toward the Other in Community Mental Health Care
Levinas, Wonder and Autoethnography
Catherine A. Racine
Series: Psychology and the Other
Beyond Clinical Dehumanisation Toward the Other offers a rare and intimate portrayal of the moral process of a mental health clinician that interrogates the intractable problem of systemic dehumanization in community mental health care, and looks to the notion of ‘wonder’, and the visionary relational ethics of Emmanuel Levinas, for a possible cure. This book is an ethical primer for mental health professionals, researchers, educators, advocates and service users working to re-imagine and heal a broken system by challenging the underpinnings of entrenched dehumanization and standing with those they “serve”.

Dream Sequences in Shakespeare
A Psychoanalytic Perspective
Meg Harris Williams
Through his commitment to poetic language, Shakespeare offers images and dramatic sequences that illustrate fundamental developmental conflicts whose solutions are not preconceived but evolve through the process of dramatization. In this volume, Meg Harris Williams explores the fundamental distinction between the surface meanings of plot or argument and the deep grammar of dreamlife, applied not only to those plays known as ‘dream-plays’, but also to critical sequences throughout Shakespeare’s oeuvre.

Race, Racism and Political Correctness in Comedy
A Psychoanalytic Exploration
Jack Black
In what ways is comedy subversive? By viewing comedy as both a constitutive feature of social interaction and as a necessary requirement in the appraisal of what is often deemed to be ‘politically correct,’ this book provides an innovative and multidisciplinary approach to the study of comedy and popular culture. In doing so, it engages with the social and cultural tensions inherent to our understandings of political correctness, arguing that comedy can subversively redefine our approach to “PC Debates”, contestations surrounding free speech and the popular portrayal of political correctness in the media and society.

Systems-Centered Training
An Illustrated Guide for Applying a Theory of Living Human Systems
Yvonne M. Agazarian, Susan P. Gantt and Frances B. Carter
The authors illustrate how life force energy fuels the hierarchy of living human systems and how theory and practice with role-systems can be useful in everyday life. They begin with describing how they have used the new illustrations as a map to locate the contexts of our roles. Using this map has also enabled the authors to identify the role-systems and explore the territory of ourselves and our groups in new ways that deepened our understanding of roles and role locks. This book illustrates systems-centered therapy and training (SCT) theory by offering a practical theory to guide therapists, leaders and consultants in working with group dynamics.

The Neurasthenia-Depression Controversy
A Window on Chinese Culture and Psychiatric Nosology
Donald Mclawhorn, SUNY Upstate Medical University, USA
This book is the first comprehensive and critical assessment of the anthropological psychiatry that has provided Western physicians with their ideas about somatization and culture. Through a critical evaluation of the Neurasthenia-Depression controversy, we can gain a view of the contested and shifting nature of psychiatric nosology, and thereby attempt to introduce the beginnings of a model that elucidates how psychiatric distress varies across cultures. This timely book challenges conventional wisdom about neurasthenia and depression in Chinese societies. Its findings will be of value to anyone who works with Chinese people with these mental illnesses across the global diaspora.

The Role of Bioethics in Emotional Problems
A Phenomenological Analysis of Intentions
Susi Ferrarello, Saybrook University, California, USA
Following up from the previous book, Human Emotions and the Origins of Bioethics, this volume focuses on four psychological problems, anxiety, narcissism, restlessness, and emotional numbness, and explores how these problems influence bioethical issues and what bioethics can do to fix them. Armed at students of philosophy, psychology, psychotherapy, and bioethics, this book is a unique phenomenological dialogue between these disciplines on emotional well-being.

The Skeptical Professional’s Guide to Psychiatry
On the Risks and Benefits of Antipsychotics, Antidepressants, Psychiatric Diagnoses, and Neuromania
Charles E. Dean
This text critically examines the shortcomings of psychiatry and the DSM-5, as well as the risks of antipsychotics and antidepressants. The book starts with an overview of the evolution of psychiatry, exploring the creation, use, and misuse of medications. Other chapters describe the problems associated with rational prescribing and the embrace of so-called novel therapies such as hallucinogens and opioids. Chapters end with a set of clinical notes with recommendations to clinicians, patients, and other providers, emphasizing the risks and benefits of treatment with medications, but also stressing alternative approaches in the hopes of ultimately improving the lives of patients.

Understanding Mental Health and Mental Illness
An Exploration of the Past, Present, and Future

Paul H. Jenkins, National University, California, USA

The question of whether someone is psychologically healthy or mentally ill, and the fundamental nature of mental health underlying that question has been debated in cultural, academic, and clinical settings for millennia. This book provides an overview of how people have conceptualized and understood mental illness through the ages. This text provides a valuable exploration of mental health and illness across the ages and gives those already well-versed in the subject matter a fresh perspective on the past and new model of knowledge and assessment for the future.

An Experience-based Vision of Psychoanalytic Theory and Practice

Joseph D. Lichtenberg, James L Fosshage and Frank M. Lachmann, New York University, USA

Series: Psychoanalytic Inquiry Book Series

An Experience-based Vision of Psychoanalytic Theory and Practice looks at each individual as a motivated doer doing, seeking, feeling, and intending, and relates development, sense of self, and identity to changes that are brought about in analytic psychotherapy.

From the variety of topics covered, the reader will get a broad overview of an experience-based analytic conception of motivation begun with Lichtenberg’s 7 motivational systems. This title will be of great interest to established psychoanalysts, as well as those training in psychoanalysis and clinical counselling psychology programs.

Cézanne and the Post-Bionian Field
An Exploration and a Meditation

Robert Snell

This book offers a nuanced introduction both to Cézanne, the ‘father of modern art’ and perhaps the most vital body of theory in contemporary psychoanalysis: ‘post-Bionian field theory’. It draws on the words of artists (Cézanne himself, Marin), philosophers (Merleau-Ponty, Bergson), art historians and theorists (Clark, Smith, Shaw), and psychoanalysts (Bion, Ferro, Civitarese and others), and it is the first to focus on one particular painter as a way of exploring this aesthetic and ‘field’ dimension in detail. Aimed at psychoanalysts, psychotherapists, artists, art historians and the general reader, it suggests how far art and contemporary psychoanalysis are mutually generative.

Belonging Through a Psychoanalytic Lens

Edited by Rebecca Coleman Curtis

The book demonstrates the difficulties faced by those who immigrate, those who never feel a sense of their true selves as belonging in a family, a cohesive professional group, and difficulties of psychoanalysts themselves in knowing where they belong in patients’ lives. The problems of breaking up marital and professional relationships as well as our relationship with the earth are also discussed. This book shows the importance of an interpersonal psychoanalysis focusing on real relationships and not simply one that examines inner conflicts. It will be useful to psychologists, other mental health practitioners, social scientists, and anyone with normal struggles in life.

Blooming in December: Psychodynamic Psychotherapy For Older Adults

Amy Schaffer

Series: Psychoanalysis in a New Key Book Series

This book covers the essentials of psychotherapeutic work with older adults, discussing how contemporary psychodynamic thought can be applied clinically to engage the older patient in psychotherapeutic work of depth and meaning, work which not only relieves suffering but also promotes growth. The demand for mental health services for older adults is growing alongside increasing lifespans, but the psychodynamic literature has neglected this population. Blooming in December: Psychodynamic Psychotherapy with Older Adults fills this gap, offering a clear guide to effective work with older adults for all psychotherapists and psychoanalysts.

Emotional Communication and Therapeutic Change
Understanding Psychotherapy Through Multiple Code Theory

Wilma Bucci and William F. Cornell

In this book, Wilma Bucci applies her skills as a cognitive psychologist and researcher to the fields of psychoanalysis and psychotherapy, opening up new avenues for understanding the underlying processes that facilitate therapeutic communication and change. Grounded in research geared to understanding and demonstrating the clinical process (rather than “outcome”) of analytic inquiry and therapeutic dialogue, Bucci’s Multiple Code Theory offers clinicians, researchers, trainers, and students new perspectives on the essential, often unarticulated, foundations of the psychotherapeutic endeavour.

Ferenczi on Freud’s Couch
A Finished Analysis?

Yves Lugrin and Agnès Jacob

This fascinating book assesses Sándor Ferenczi’s role in the history of psychoanalysis, examining his personal analysis with Freud, the father of the discipline. The book delves into archival material to shed light on issues around transference between Freud and Ferenczi, as well as Ferenczi’s own development as ‘the first analyst’. It offers a unique deciphering of the transmission of psychoanalysis process, distinguishing between self-analysis, personal analysis and training analysis.

Healing, Rebirth and the Work of Michael Eigen
Collected Essays on a Pioneer in Psychoanalysis
Edited by Ken Fuchsm an and Keri S. Cohen
This important book features collected essays on the distinguished psychoanalyst Dr. Michael Eigen, who has emerged as an influential innovator within and beyond psychoanalysis. The book begins with a series of articles on Eigen's perspective on time, before covering topics such as the evolution of the psyche, mystery and metaphor, and breakdown and recovery. Dr. Eigen is one of the most influential psychoanalysts of the current era and this collection of essays provides insightful discussion on his ideas. This celebration of Michael Eigen will fascinate any psychoanalyst interested in his work.

Identification in Psychoanalysis
A Comprehensive Introduction
Jean Florence
The concept of identification is a central tenet of psychoanalysis, and in this comprehensive study the various stages are fully explored. The book examines the foundations upon which the idea rests before highlighting its various manifestations, from the primary emotional identification, usually with one's parents, to secondary identifications relating to sexual development and loss. The concept is illustrated with clinical examples to reveal a process that continues throughout the lifespan, operating at the level of both individual and the group. It will be essential reading for both psychoanalysts and psychotherapists, whether practising or in training.

Marriage and Family in Modern China
A Psychoanalytic Exploration
David E. Scharff
Series: The Library of Couple and Family Psychoanalysis
Marriage and Family in Modern China is a groundbreaking psychoanalytic examination of how 70 years of widespread social change have transformed the intimacies of life in modern China. This wholly original book offers new insight into Chinese families for all those interested in psychoanalytic psychotherapy and in the intricacies of Chinese domestic life.

Migration and Intercultural Psychoanalysis
Unconscious Forces and Clinical Issues
Edited by Kristin White and Ina Klingenberg
This edited volume brings together contributions on the social, historical and personal aspects of migration from a psychoanalytic viewpoint. Clinical perspective is combined with a wider view that makes use of psychoanalytic concepts and experience to understand problematic issues around migration today. Later chapters take the historical background into account: the history of psychoanalysis itself is a history of migration, beginning with Freud's experiences of migration, in particular his escape from Nazi Vienna to London at the end of his life, to answer questions regarding migration, refugees, living in a “multicultural society” and living in a “foreign culture”.

Psychoanalysis as a Spiritual Discipline
In Dialogue with Martin Buber and Gabriel Marcel
Paul Marcus
In chapters that focus on love, work, faith, suffering, and clinical practice, Paul Marcus shows how the spiritual optic of Buber and Marcel can help revive and refresh psychoanalysis, and bring it back into the light by communicating its inherent vitality, power, and relevance to the mental health community and to those who seek psychosyntactic treatment.

Psychoanalysis in Medicine
Applying Psychoanalytic Thought to Contemporary Medical Care
Paul Ian Steinberg
University of British Columbia, Canada
This book shows how contemporary psychoanalytic thinking can be applied to enhance the everyday practice of medicine. Dr. Steinberg analyzes his writings over the past 35 years—on psychiatry and family medicine, liaison psychiatry, and supervision and mentoring—based on psychoanalytic developments. Divided into sections based on different venues of medical practice, chapters illustrate how various concepts in psychoanalysis can enhance understanding and management of patients. A concluding section contains applications of psychoanalytic thought in nonclinical areas pertinent to medicine, such as suicide among physicians, patient abuse, and oral examination anxiety in physicians.
Psychoanalytic Reflections on Writing, Cinema and the Arts
Facing Beauty and Loss
Paola Golinelli, private practice, Bologna, Italy
Series: The International Psychoanalytical Association Psychoanalytic Ideas and Applications Series

Expanding from the author’s personal experience, this book is a series of applied psychoanalytic essays on film, literature, and aesthetic pleasure. It explores the complexity of loss and mourning, destructivity, perversion, and revenge, as well as an exploration of what can facilitate transformation and how to lead a blocked healing process back to motion. This fascinating and insightful book will be of interest to psychoanalysts, psychologists, teachers and students, and all those with an interest in psychoanalysis and the arts.

Psychotherapy Under the Influence of Georges Bataille
From Social Theory to Clinical Practice
William Buse

This fascinating book applies social theorist Georges Bataille’s revolutionary thinking to psychotherapy, offering clinicians a new and valuable context for practicing therapy. In adding Bataille’s ideas to several different psychotherapeutic modalities, this book makes the notoriously obscure thinker more accessible while testing the validity of his far-reaching work in the treatment room. Offering an unprecedented opportunity to imagine how Bataille’s own interest in psychoanalysis and clinical psychology might have developed, this book will be of interest to both practitioners in the field and scholars of continental philosophy and social theory.

Psychotherapy and Personal Change
Two Minds in a Mirror
Ahron Friedberg and Sandra Sherman

Psychotherapy and Personal Change offers unique day-to-day accounts of patients undergoing psychotherapy, and what happens during “talk therapy” to startle the complacent, conscious mind and expose the unconscious. It is a candid, moment-by-moment revelation of how the therapist’s own memories, feelings, and doubts are often as much a factor in the process as those of the patient. Through specific examples, the book raises the reader’s understanding of what to expect from psychotherapy, and enhances his/her insight into therapy that he/she may have had already.

Psychoanalytic Assessment Applications for Different Settings
Edited by Jed A. Yalof and Anthony D. Bram

In this edited volume, expert assessors illustrate through case examples how they apply psychoanalytic theory to different clinical settings. These settings include private practice, neuropsychological, medical, forensic, personnel, custody, school, and psychiatric-residential. Students, educators, practitioners, and the professionals who collaborate with assessors will benefit from this book’s offerings.

Psychoanalysts in Session
Clinical Glossary of Contemporary Psychoanalysis
Edited by Laurent Danon-Boileau and Jean-Yves Tamet

Psychoanalysis is an intimate clinical experience and the concepts that it explores aim to grapple with the specific phenomena that unfold when a patient speaks and an analyst listens. This book aims to give concrete examples of how these concepts take shape when analysts work. This book therefore constitutes an essential tool for psychologists, psychoanalysts and all professional in the field of mental care.

Richard M. Billow’s Selected Papers on Psychoanalysis and Group Process
Changing Our Minds
Edited by Tzachi Slonim

This comprehensive volume presents Richard M. Billow’s unique contributions to the theory and technique of psychotherapy, along with summaries and explications by the volume’s editor, Tzachi Slonim. Billow’s intimate knowledge of Bionian theory, coupled with his down-to-earth demeanour and clear writing, allow him to explicate and expand upon Bion’s important contributions in a manner accessible to the novice and expert therapist alike. With one eye on therapeutic process, and the other on each participant including the therapist himself, Billow invites each of us to change our minds.
Scansion in Psychoanalysis and Art

The Cut in Creation

Vanessa Sinclair
Series: Art, Creativity, and Psychoanalysis Book Series
Scansion in Psychoanalysis and Art examines a strain of artists spanning more than a century, beginning at the dawn of photography and culminating in the discussion of contemporary artists, to illustrate various psychoanalytic concepts by examining artists working in a multitude of mediums. This is an intriguing book for psychoanalysts, psychologists, and creative artists therapists, who wish to explore the generative potential of scansion and the relationship between psychoanalysis and the arts, as well as those art historians interested in a psychoanalytic view of these processes.

The Portuguese School of Group Analysis

Towards a Unified and Integrated Approach to Theory Research and Clinical Work

Edited by Isaura Manso Neto and Margarida França
Series: The New International Library of Group Analysis
In this vital new book, an impressive collection of contributors demonstrate how group analysis in Portugal has always embraced the relational paradigm that has become central to contemporary psychoanalysis. The focus in this book is on the “pattern”, allowing transformation of each patient’s personal matrix, working through primitive relational failures and paving the way to new beginnings, always in a transgenerational group context. It will be of tremendous importance to psychotherapists working in Group Analysis around the world.

The Sublime in Everyday Life
Psychoanalytic and Aesthetic Perspectives
Edited by Anastasios Gaitanidis and Polona Curk
Notions of the sublime are most often associated with the extraordinary and includes the intra-psychic, high-cultural and exceptional occurrences of elation and exaltation as part of its experience. Using psychoanalytic and aesthetic theories, this book aims to re-evaluate the sublime by re-evaluating its significance for contemporary life and, in a unique and fascinating endeavour, opens up a space that explores the sublime in the ordinary, everyday and quotidian. It will be of great interest to psychoanalysts, psychotherapists and art therapists, as well as scholars and students of philosophy and popular culture.

Women and Psychoanalysis
The Collected Papers of Lucy Holmes
Lucy Holmes
This remarkable collection charts the professional growth of one psychoanalyst from student to seasoned clinician to provide a guidebook for how psychoanalytic theory is conceptualized, created and tested in the analytic session. Specifically, the book traces the development of thinking on the place of women in psychoanalysis and how psychoanalysis has changed how it views and treats women. Exploring topics across women’s lives, such as childbirth, anger, identity, death, humour, leadership, and madness, this unique collection of papers is ideal for practicing clinicians and psychoanalysis theorists.

From Therapeutic Relationships to Transitional Care
A Theoretical and Practical Roadmap
Edited by Cheryl Forchuk
This text provides a foundational understanding of therapeutic relationships and the transitional discharge model (TDM), a person-centered, evidence-based model that supports a smooth transition from hospital to community for those with mental illness. Chapters introduce readers to theoretical, historical, and current perspectives on therapeutic relationships as they relate to transitional care. The perspectives foreground empirical research and practical applications that can be implemented in a hospital and community settings. This book combines theory, research, and best practices into a “roadmap” for students across nursing and psychiatric disciplines to coordinate these systems.

Practicing Psychotherapy
Lessons on Helping Patients and Growing as a Professional
Linda L. Chamberlain
This book shares Dr. Chamberlain's varied expertise and experiences from working as a psychotherapist for over 40 years, bestowing the wisdom she has gleaned throughout her career from patients, students, teachers, and colleagues. The text examines three core themes: how helping clients is intertwined with the therapist's own life journey; the experience of building intimate relationships with vulnerable populations; and the process of accepting loss and moving forward, for both client and the therapist. Prioritizing personal narratives and case examples, this book marks the significant impact psychotherapy has both patients and clients as well as the mental health professional.

Shame-informed Counselling and Psychotherapy
Eastern and Western Perspectives
Edmund Ng
Unhealthy or maladaptive shame is believed to be the root cause of a diverse range of mental health problems. If we want to offer a more reparative healing to people contending with these psychological issues, we must ultimately trace back and resolve their underlying shame. Ng draws on field study evidence, 15 years’ of professional practice as well as Western and Eastern literature, to offer practical shame-informed interventions. He offers a balance of theoretical and empirical content with clear and methodical techniques which will be valuable for researchers and counselling students.

Neuroscience, Psychotherapy and Clinical Pragmatism
Reflective Practice and Therapeutic Action
William Borden, University of Chicago, USA
Series: Psychoanalytic Explorations
This volume explores how the principles and values of pragmatic philosophy serve as orienting perspectives for critical thinking in contemporary psychotherapy and clinical practice. The volume reviews paradigms of psychotherapy across the psychodynamic, behavioral, cognitive, and humanistic traditions, and case studies show how the pluralist orientation of clinical pragmatism enlarges concepts of therapeutic action. This text has been written for psychotherapists as well as scholars, educators, and trainees in the fields of psychiatry, clinical psychology, counseling, and social work.

New Frontiers of Relational Thinking in Psychoanalysis

A Meta-Theory of Being and Becoming Michele Minolli and Maria Pia Roggero

New Frontiers of Relational Thinking in Psychoanalysis aims to take the reader into the depths of their humanity, to promote a creative process that the author calls “consistency.” Consistency is a quality that enables the human subject to make themselves the starting point of their life, whatever this may be. This book will be of great interest to anyone wanting to understand the place of relational thinking in psychoanalysis now and how it is likely to develop in the near future, attentive to the challenges of society. It will also be of great value to psychoanalysts, psychologists and other mental health professionals, both in practice and in training.

The Relational Interpretation of Dreams

When It’s About More Than Your Mother
Alicia Ann MacDougall

Maintaining a focus on the synergy between dreams and relationship, this book includes interviews with four eminent dream researchers: John S. Antrobus, G. William Domhoff, Mark J. Bielechn and J. Allan Hobson. This book explores the synergetic qualities between dreams and relationships and how that synergy generates biographically, professionally, and psychotherapeutically formative experiences. The book delineates the ways in which dreams provide a foundation for relating, provides a container for the unthought known, creates meaning through relationships, and ultimately fosters dispersion of relational dynamics originating from the culture of the times and more.

Working with Survivor Siblings in Psychoanalysis

Ability and Disability in Clinical Process
Johanna Dobrich

This book explores the effects of growing up with a severely disabled sibling from a relational psychoanalytic perspective. Dobrich considers how the survivor sibling can develop a self of self and navigate the narcissistic injuries of their shared caregivers to achieve personal growth. Drawing on interviews with analysts who are survivor siblings, as well as extensive clinical material, this book offers a new perspective on the impact of sibling relationships on subjective development, identity formation, and the clinical encounter in particular.

From Pleasure to the Object

Philippe Van Haute, Radboud University, The Netherlands and Herman Westerink, Radboud University, The Netherlands
Series: The History of Psychoanalysis Series

In this book Freud’s 1905 theory of sexuality is reconstructed in its historical context, its systematic outline and its actual relevance. This reconstruction reveals a non-oedipal theory of sexuality defined in terms of autoerotic, non-objectal physical-pleasurable activities originating from the ‘drive’ and the excitability of erogenous zones. This book consequently, not only calls for a reconsideration of the development of Freudian thinking and of the status of the Oedipus complex in psychoanalysis, but also has a strong potential for supporting contemporary non-hetero-normative theories of sexuality.

Triumph Over Abuse
Healing, Recovery, and Purpose after an Abusive Relationship

Christine E. Murray, University of North Carolina, Greensboro, USA

In this book Christine Murray carefully weaves her personal experiences as a survivor with her professional expertise as a counselor, community advocate, and researcher into a comprehensive guidebook for survivors of abuse. It offers extensive practical guidance on a range of topics, such as building coping skills, surrounding yourself with the right kinds of support, working through traumatic memories, and channeling your experience into helping others and making a difference in the world. The book will inspire and equip survivors of abuse to build full, meaningful lives despite the trauma they have faced, as well as being a tool for clinicians to use to support clients.

Handbook of Violence Risk Assessment
Edited by Kevin S. Douglas, Simon Fraser University, Canada and Randy K. Otto, Florida Mental Health Institute, USA

Series edited by Patricia Zapf
Series: International Perspectives on Forensic Mental Health

The Handbook of Violence Risk Assessment, Second Edition, builds on the first edition’s comprehensive discussion of violence risk assessment instruments with an update of research on established tools and the addition of new chapters devoted to recently developed risk assessment tools. Also included are broader chapters that address matters such as the consideration of psychopathy and how the law shapes violence risk assessment. Already the primary reference for practitioners, researchers, and legal professionals in this area, this second edition’s easy-to-access, comprehensive, and current information will make it an indispensable reference for those in the field.

What Makes Us Human: How Minds Develop through Social Interactions

Jeremy Carpendale and Charlie Lewis

This book challenges the assumption that human capacities such as language, morality, and imagination are inborn, and instead show how these competences emerge through developmental processes embedded in social interaction. Richly illustrated with examples and vignettes that bring theories alive, the accessible prose shepherds the reader through scientific and philosophical debates, translating complex theories and concepts for psychologists and non-psychologists alike. This is essential reading for anyone with a serious interest in the nature of the mind, language, morality, thinking, and the process of human development.

Healing the Reason-Emotion Split
Scarecrows, Tin Woodmen, and the Wizard
Daniel S. Levine, University of Texas at Arlington, USA
Healing the Reason-Emotion Split draws on research from experimental psychology and neuroscience to dispel the myth that there is a fundamental opposition between reason and emotion. Arguing that reason and emotion mutually benefit our decision-making abilities, the book explores the idea that understanding this relationship could have long-term advantages for our management of society's biggest problems. Levine contends that we should change how we conceive our relationships with each other and the earth, using our emotions and innate reasoning abilities to aid mental processing and prove that individuals and societies can be empathic and practical at the same time.

The Cerebellum in Emotions and Psychopathology
Dennis J.L.G. Schutter
The Cerebellum in Emotions and Psychopathology provides an accessible introduction to the role of the cerebellum in non-motor functions. Although traditionally considered to be solely the domain of motor control, there is now a wealth of research to suggest that it also plays important roles in human emotion and mood disorders. In this groundbreaking book, Dennis Schutter draws on evidence from psychology, neuroscience, neurology, psychiatry and biology to stimulate theoretical reflection and dispel the myth that the cerebellum has no importance outside of motor functions. Ideal for students, researchers and anyone interested in how our brains really work.

Adjusting to Brain Injury
Reflections from Survivors, Family Members and Clinicians

Katherine Dawson, EdD, Center for Learning and Attention Disorders, Seacoast Mental Health Center, Portsmouth, NH, Ashraf Sheikh, Karl Hargreaves, Meg Archer and Lisa Summerill

Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories

Each person tells their story in their own words, describing what happened to them, how they dealt with it, and how they experienced the recovery process. The cases represent very different types of people and severity of injury but are alike in providing raw accounts of the challenges faced whilst also highlighting their resilience and determination to carve out new lives. Alongside these inspirational stories are contributions by friends and family, as well as several members of the interdisciplinary rehabilitation team to give a broader view of the whole process of recovery and provides a context for understanding the challenges and successes in each case.

Coping with Chronic Illness
Theories, Issues and Lived Experiences

Silvia Bonino

This valuable book combines psychological theories of health with the lived experience of coping with chronic health conditions, focusing on the ‘ill person’ as an actor of their own development. It considers all aspects of living with illness, from issues that impact on everyday functioning such as pain and fatigue, to the rebuilding of identity and the building of therapeutic relationships. It is important reading for those living with chronic health conditions, as well as for healthcare professionals to gain awareness of the psychological issues that exist alongside living with illness. It is also relevant for postgraduate students of health psychology.

Living with Mild Brain Injury
The Difficulties of Diagnosis and Recovery from Post-Concussion Syndrome

Pauline O’Connor
Series: After Brain Injury: Survivor Stories
The author incorporates memories alongside extracts from clinic notes, diary entries and emails to reflect the disjointed progress of diagnosis and recovery as—although similar—no two head injuries are the same. Through this book, the reader gains an appreciation of the confusion experienced by many brain injury survivors, which sheds light on why some may develop unusual behavior or mental health issues, and how such issues can be alleviated. Brain injuries are poorly understood by the general public and this can lead to difficult interactions. Moreover, complications in diagnosis means some may not realize they have this milder form of brain injury.

Becoming a Digital Parent
A Practical Guide to Help Families Navigate Technology
Carrie Rogers Whitehead
This book is a practical, readable guide that will help all parents have confidence to successfully navigate technology with their children. It accessibly presents evidence-based guidance to offer an overview of the digital landscape, empowering parents to embrace opportunities whilst keeping children responsible and safe online. It is ideal for all parents looking to effectively navigate the technological world, and the range of professionals who work with them.

Parenting Across Cultures from Childhood to Adolescence
Development in Nine Countries
Edited by Jennifer E. Lansford, PhD, Sanford School of Public Policy, Duke University, Durham, NC, W. Andrew Rothenberg and Marc H. Bornstein
This vital volume advances understanding of how parenting changes or remains the same from childhood to adolescence in diverse cultural contexts. Revealing the Parenting Across Cultures project, it analyses annual interviews with parents and children in nine countries. It offers insight into trajectories of parenting, exploring parents’ warmth, control, setting rules, and knowledge of children’s activities and whereabouts. Expert authors based in the countries examined, provide researchers and students of psychology, human development, family studies, sociology, and cultural anthropology, as well as professionals working with families, with a truly global understanding of parenting.

Designing Evidence-Based Public Health and Prevention Programs
Expert Program Developers Explain the Science and Art
Edited by Mark E. Feinberg
Demonstrating that program development is as much art as science, this book brings together expert program leaders to give practical principles for developing effective prevention curricula. It covers programs addressing a range of physical, mental, and behavioral health problems, including ones targeting families, specific populations, and developmental stages. Readers will learn how to: select content or targets based on existing research; initiate, reinforce, and generalize behavior change; and refine a curriculum.

Psychological Insights for Understanding COVID-19 and Families, Parents, and Children
Edited by Marc H. Bornstein
Series: Psychological Insights for Understanding COVID-19
Introducing Marc H. Bornstein, this volume collects previously published chapters that address challenges presented by the pandemic to families, parents, and children. It considers the impact of disasters, parenting at this time, child discipline and abuse, and necessary interventions. The selected chapters elucidate key themes including children’s worry, stress and parenting, positive parenting, barriers which constrain population-level impact of prevention programs, and the importance of culturally adapting evidence-based family intervention programs. It is for all professionals, students, academics and policy makers concerned with psychological consequences of COVID-19.

The Maternal Experience
Encounters with Ambivalence and Love
Margo Lowy
Series: Women and Psychology
The Maternal Experience explores the powerful and dynamic nature of maternal ambivalence, and disrupts the conventional narrative of the mother’s lived experience by arguing that encounters with feelings of hatred are both universal and have the capacity to stimulate and enrich her maternal love. Brought alive by examples from film and first-hand experience, this book is fascinating reading for academics and students of psychology, maternal and women’s studies, and sociology, as well as practitioners in the fields of psychology, social work, medicine and counselling.
The Genetics of Political Behavior
How Evolutionary Psychology Explains Ideology

Michael Ryan

In this unique amalgam of neuroscience, genetics and evolutionary psychology, Ryan argues that leftists and rightists are biologically distinct versions of the human species that came into being at different moments in human evolution. Proposing a new way of understanding human politics, this is fascinating reading for students and academics in psychology, the social sciences, and humanities, as well as general readers interested in political behavior.

The Psychology of Political Polarization

Edited by Jan-Willem van Prooijen

Series: Current Issues in Social Psychology

This important book was inspired by the notion that to understand the momentum of radical political movements, it is important to understand the attitudes of individual citizens who support such movements. The book explores the basis of political polarization as being how citizens think and feel about people with a different worldview, how they perceive minority groups, and how much they trust leaders and experts on pressing societal issues such as climate change, health, international relations, and poverty. The book offers a state-of-the-art introduction to the psychology of political polarization which will appeal to academic market and political professionals.

Human Measurement Techniques in Speech and Language Pathology

Methods for Research and Clinical Practice

Rietveld Toni

The role of human judgements is central to the assessment and diagnosis of speech and language disorders. Major technological gains have been made in measuring and interpretation within both therapeutic and research contexts. Written to be accessible to readers with only a basic knowledge of statistics, this textbook gives an overview of elicitation procedures of judgement, methodological and statistical approaches to quality assessment, and procedures for the processing of scores obtained in paired comparisons and in the context of signal detection theory. It also introduces software relevant to the calculation of all kinds of coefficients of reliability and agreement.

Measurement Theory in Action

Case Studies and Exercises

Kenneth S Shultz, David J. Whitney and Michael J Zickar

This book helps readers apply testing and measurement theories and features 22 self-contained modules which instructors can match to their courses. Each module features an overview of a measurement issue and a step-by-step application of that theory. Best Practices provide recommendations for ensuring the appropriate application of the theory. Practical Questions help students assess their understanding of the topic. Students can apply the material using real data in the Exercises; some of which require no computer access, while others involve the use of statistical software to solve the problem.

Adventures of a Psychologist
Reflections on What Made Up the Mind
Michael Corballis
Adventures of a Psychologist traces the developments in academic psychology across the last 60 years. Written by distinguished psychologist, Michael Corballis and following his own unique career path, the book discusses how our understanding of psychology has progressed from behaviourism, through a cognitive revolution, to the modern-day focus on neuroscience. Alongside discussion of how psychology has sought to establish itself as a science, the book doesn’t shy away from the author’s own involvements in various scientific controversies, adding to an understanding of the personal aspect of scientific endeavour.

Beyond Reasoning
The Life, Times and Work of Peter Wason, Pioneering Psychologist
Ken Manktelow, University of Wolverhampton, UK
This book tells the story of Peter Cathcart Wason, the pioneering research psychologist credited for establishing a whole new field of science: the psychological study of reasoning. The author, Ken Manktelow, paints a vivid and personal portrait of Wason. Covering not only his academic work, the book traces his eclectic family history, before moving through his service in the Second World War, to his abortive first attempt at a career and subsequent extraordinary success as a psychologist. A unique cartography of one of the most renowned figures in cognitive psychology, this will be of interest to anyone with an interest in thinking and reasoning, as well as cognitive psychology as a whole.

Cognitive Design for Artificial Minds
Antonio Lieto
Cognitive Design for Artificial Minds explains the crucial role that human cognition research plays in the design and realization of artificial intelligence systems, illustrating the steps necessary for the design of artificial models of cognition. It bridges the gap between the theoretical, experimental and technological issues addressed in the context of AI of cognitive inspiration and computational cognitive science. Providing a comprehensive overview of cognitive design principles in constructing artificial minds, this text will be essential reading for students and researchers of artificial intelligence and cognitive science.

3rd Edition
Clinical Psychology
Edited by Graham Davey, Emeritus Professor, University of Sussex, UK; Nick Lake, Sussex Partnership NHS Foundation Trust, UK; and Adrian Whittington, Sussex Partnership NHS Foundation Trust, UK
Clinical Psychology, Third Edition offers an introduction to clinical psychology as it is operating on the ground – delivering clinical interventions, supervision, consultation, leadership, training and research, in rapidly changing health and care services. Given the popularity of clinical psychology for many undergraduate and graduate students, the contents of this text have been designed around teaching and learning features that can be used as the basis for an intermediate or advanced-level course that will allow students to learn both breadth and depth about clinical psychology.

Critical Psychology Praxis
Psychosocial Non-Alignment to Modernity/Coloniality
Edited by Robert K. Beshara
Series: Advances in Theoretical and Philosophical Psychology
This collection of chapters advances critical psychology by incorporating praxis (theory and practice) and decolonial streams of thought. They are united around a theme of psychosocial non-alignment to modernity/coloniality. This groundbreaking text is suitable for scholars and upper-level undergraduate and postgraduate students studying critical discourse, the psychology and philosophy of post-coloniality, conceptual and historical issues in psychology, as well as anthropology and sociology courses engaging with action research.

Multidisciplinary Perspectives on the Psychology of Exclusion
From rejection to personal and social harmony
Agnieszka Wilczyńska
This new volume considers one of the most pressing topics of a generation, the sense of social exclusion, rejection and loneliness experienced by many adolescents and young adults. It offers insights from psychological and biochemical research, explains the role of the brain, mind and body in the development of a sense of belonging over the lifespan. Illustrated with examples of the consequences of exclusion drawn from the author’s clinical work, it surveys the latest research in the field and introduces an innovative framework for understanding the development of the sense of belonging.

Psychopathology and Philosophy of Mind
What Mental Disorders Can Tell Us About Our Minds
Edited by Valentina Cardella, University of Messina, Italy and Amelia Gangemi

This book explores how the human mind works through the lens of psychological disorders, challenging many existing theoretical constructs, especially in the fields of psychology, psychiatry and philosophy of mind. This book caters to the increasing interest in interdisciplinary approach to solving some of the problems in psychopathology. Since this book treats psychological engagement with empirically informed philosophy of mind, this book is essential reading for students and researchers of Cognitive Psychology, Clinical Psychology, and Philosophy, as well as being of interest to clinicians and psychiatrists.

The Creation of Scientific Psychology
David J. Murray, Queen’s University, Canada. and Stephen W. Link, McMaster University, Canada.

Series: Scientific Psychology Series
With an emphasis on developments taking place in Germany during the nineteenth century, this book provides in-depth examinations of the key contributions made by the pioneers of scientific psychology. Their works brought measurement and mathematics into the study of the mind. With an eye to interactions and influences on future work in the field, the volume illustrates the important legacy that developments in the nineteenth century have for twentieth and twenty-first century psychologists. The Creation of Scientific Psychology will appeal to researchers, academics, and students in the fields of history of psychology, psychophysics, scientific, and mathematical psychology.
A Scientific Assessment of the Validity of Mystical Experiences
Understanding Altered Psychological and Neurophysiological States
Andrew C. Papanicolaou, University of Tennessee, USA.
Series: Routledge Research in Psychology
In this book the approach of the natural sciences is adopted to confront the ontological question of how mystical experiences can be considered as reports of an objective reality rather than reports of subjective delusions. This fresh approach to mystical experiences will be of interest to scholars, researchers, and postgraduate students working in the areas of psychology and neuroscience, and with an interest in mysticism in religious studies and philosophy.

Behavior and Culture in One Dimension
Sequences, Affordances, and the Evolution of Complexity
Dennis P. Waters
Series: Resources for Ecological Psychology Series
This book provides an essential and readable introduction into how one-dimensional sequences (DNA, syntax, code) organise complex physical and living systems. Integrating ecological psychology with a wide variety of disciplines from astrobiology and linguistics, the book builds on Gibsonian concepts of perception, action, and affordances, as well as the works of Howard Pattee, to examine linear sequences, and the ways in which they interact with the non-linear, three-dimensional world. Also exploring how language helps organise behaviour and structures, this is fascinating reading for students and researchers in ecological, psychology, linguistics, and the social and biological sciences.

Children and Television Consumption in the Digital Era
Use, Impact and Regulation
Barrie Gunter, University of Leicester, UK
Do children spend too much time with screen technologies? This key new volume explores the rapid evolution of television and how children in particular have led the way in non-linear viewing. It examines the wide body of literature to present evidence for positive and negative effects of children’s screen experiences, exploring the perennial question of the impact on children’s cognitive and behavioural development of exposure to specific types of content. Key topics explored include television’s role in how children learn about social roles, antisocial and prosocial behaviour, in child health and well-being, and how parents can mediate children’s screen behaviour.

Happiness and Well-Being in Chinese Societies

Sociocultural Analyses

Chau-kiu Cheung, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong

Xiaodong Yue, City University of Hong Kong, Hong Kong SAR

This book addresses the sustainability of happiness and well-being in Chinese societies, by scrutinizing the effects of sociocultural contextual and personal factors on well-being. The contextual factors are the aggregates of personal factors at the contextual levels of the region and college in Mainland China, its special administrative region, and Taiwan. These factors cover personality traits, strengths, orientations, beliefs, values, and idolizing. By bringing together empirical studies and theoretical perspectives applied to Chinese societies, this book offers researchers in social science and humanities a valuable reference work on happiness and well-being in Chinese societies.

Internet Addiction

A Critical Psychology of Users

Emaline Friedman

Series: Concepts for Critical Psychology

Friedman explores the limitations of individual-centered remediations exemplified in the psychology of internet addiction. Furthermore, Friedman outlines the self-creative actions of social media users, and the data processing that exploits them in order to urge psychologists to politicize rather than pathologize the sad effects of excessive net use. The book proclaims a distinctively capitalist imperialism of the social web and studies this using the radical methods of philosopher, Gilles Deleuze and psychoanalyst Felix Guattari.

Islamic Psychology

Human Behaviour and Experience from an Islamic Perspective

G. Hussein Rassool, International Open University

Islamic Psychology or ilm an-nafs (Science of the Soul) is an important textbook drawing on the latest evidence in the sub-disciplines of psychology to provide a balanced and comprehensive view of human nature, behaviour and experience. Its foundation to develop theories about human nature is based upon the writings of Muslim scholars and contemporary research findings. This book is a core text on Islamic psychology for undergraduate and post-graduate students and those undertaking continuing professional development in Islamic psychology, psychotherapy and counselling. Beyond this, it is also a good supporting resource for teachers and lecturers in this field.

Jean Piaget, Children and the Class-Inclusion Problem

Dolph Kohnstamm

Series: Psychology Press & Routledge Classic Editions

With a new introduction outlining current context and latest research in the field, this Classic Edition offers a critical study of a cornerstone of Piaget’s theory that a child’s ability to solve problems of class inclusion marks the beginning of the period of concrete (logical) operations at about seven or eight years of age. Kohnstamm’s experiments show, however, that with directive teaching methods, most children of five can already learn to solve inclusion problems. His results make him question the basic assumption of Piaget’s theory that logical operations can only develop in firmly connected groupings of operations, not in isolation.

Post-Capitalist Subjectivity in Literature and Anti-Psychiatry

Reconceptualizing the Self Beyond Capitalism

Hans A. Skott-Myhre, Kennesaw State University, USA.

Series: Routledge Research in Psychology

This book considers the possibilities of liberating our habitual patterns of perception and conscious beyond the confines of a capitalist era. By analyzing the professional writings of anti-psychiatrists Basaglia and Laing, as well as Marxist and post-Marxist theory, and the work of fiction writers Kafka and Garcia Marquez, the text identifies alternative conceptualizations of the self. Focussing on portrayals of institutions and the family, Skott-Myhre proposes that these social systems offer new modes of reading the world and ourselves which will transform social organization and free subjectivity from dominant capitalist structures.

Selfless: A Psychologist’s Journey through Identity and Social Class

Geoffrey Beattie, Edge Hill University, UK

In this unique memoir-style book, Psychologist Geoffrey Beattie reflects on identity, social class, mobility, education, and psychology as a discipline, through a colourful autobiographical narrative. Beattie takes the reader on a journey through his early life in Northern Ireland, university experience in England, and subsequent academic and professional career, to explore contemporary issues within psychology, how it prioritises objects of study, and uncovers psychological truths about the world. Showing how autoethnographic approaches offer unique perspectives, Beattie’s emotionally engaging text offers general readers, students, and academics insights into his experiences of Psychology.

Terror, Love and Brainwashing

Attachment in Cults and Totalitarian Systems

Alexandra Stein, Department of Psychological Sciences, Birkbeck, University of London

This book explores how people can be radically manipulated by extreme groups and leaders to engage in incomprehensible and often dangerous acts through psychologically isolating situations of extreme social influence. These methods are used in totalitarian states, terrorist groups and cults, as well as in controlling personal relationships. It is essential reading for professionals, policy makers, legal professionals, educators and cult survivors and their families themselves.

The Digitalisation of (Inter)Subjectivity
A Psy-critique of the Digital Death Drive
Jan De Vos, Ghent University, Belgium

The book engages with artificial intelligence and cybernetics and the work of Alan Turing, Norbert Wiener, Marvin Minsky, Gregory Bateson and Warren McCulloch to demonstrate how their use of neuropty-theories persists in contemporary digital culture. The author aims to trace a trajectory from psychologisation to neurologisation, and finally, to digitalisation, to make us question the digital future of humankind in relation to the idea of subjectivity, and the threat of the ‘death-drive’ inherent to digitality itself. This book is fascinating reading for students and researchers in the fields of critical psychology, neuroscience, education studies, philosophy and media studies.

The Psychology of Fraud, Persuasion and Scam Techniques
Understanding What Makes Us Vulnerable
Martina Dove

This book examines the psychology behind fraud and explores persuasion and scam techniques that fraudsters frequently use. It also explains how this affects decision making and emotions, and addresses human factors, such as individual characteristics, and behaviours and circumstances that make people more vulnerable. The author refers to real scam scenarios and the experiences of fraud victims in relation to the bigger picture of crime prevention, reporting, and the social stigma attached to fraud. This is valuable reading for professionals dealing with fraud, fraud victims, and academics and students interested in the psychology of fraud.

Using Intergroup Contact to Fight Prejudice and Negative Attitudes
Psychological Perspectives

Loris Vezzali, Associate Professor, Department of Education and Humanities, University of Modena and Reggio Emilia, Italy and Sofia Stathi, Senior Lecturer in Psychology, University of Greenwich, UK

Series: European Monographs in Social Psychology

Focusing on the importance of improving intergroup relations, this book examines how intergroup contact can be used to reduce prejudice. The authors build on and critique the contact hypothesis (Allport, 1954) and contribute to its integration with social psychological theoretical and methodological advances through their own research. The book covers attitudes, personality, morality, communication, and social change, in relation to realistic scenarios from research in both the lab and the field. The book will make a significant contribution to the intergroup relations theory, and will be essential reading for both students and academics of social and behavioural psychology.

A Theory of Environmental Leadership
Leading for the Earth

Mark Manolopoulos
Series: Leadership: Research and Practice

In A Theory of Environmental Leadership, Mark Manolopoulos draws on his original model of leading outlined in his cutting-edge book Following Reason to derive and develop the first properly systematic model of eco-leadership. Expansive and incredibly timely, this book is ideal for a range of audiences, from scholars and students of environmental leadership studies to activists and policymakers. The book’s remarkable clarity and engaging character also makes it suitable for the general public.

Leadership Across Boundaries
A Passage to Aporia

Nathan Harter
Series: Leadership: Research and Practice

Leadership Across Boundaries theorizes on leadership in an unprecedented manner by stepping outside of conventional leadership theory and importing into leadership studies the implications of certain innovations in the social sciences, such as pluralism, complexity theory, and the dialogical turn, to change the way scholars discuss and study leadership. An interdisciplinary text, this book will appeal not only to scholars, instructors, and students of leadership, but also to those in the many fields in which leadership theory applies, such as history, economics, sociology, archetypal psychology, the law, political philosophy, applied mathematics, and the martial arts.

Essentials of Job Attitudes and Other Workplace Psychological Constructs

Edited by Valerie I. Sessa, Montclair State University and Nathan A. Bowling, Wright State University, Dayton, OH, USA
Series: Essentials of Industrial and Organizational Psychology

Although the topic of job attitudes and other workplace psychological constructs such as perceptions, identity, bonds, and motivational states is important, there are no books addressing the topic as a whole. Essentials of Job Attitudes and Other Workplace Psychological Construct seeks to fill that void in a comprehensive edited volume that compiles chapters by experts on each construct. This is an ideal text for students and professionals in industrial and organizational psychology, organizational behavior, and human resource management.

Learning in Organizations
An Evidence-Based Approach

J. Kevin Ford, Michigan State University

Learning in Organizations: An Evidence-Based Approach examines the variety of systematic approaches and strategies for learning and development used in the workplace through the implementation of formal training, guided instruction, developmental job experiences, and self-directed learning. For learning practitioners, research evidence is translated into best practices that can be applied to enhance workplace learning and development. For undergraduate and graduate students, the book provides an up-to-date review of the key concepts and ways of thinking about and studying learning in the workplace.

Organisation and Everyday Life with Dyslexia and other SpLDs

Ginny Stacey and Sally Fowler

Organisation and Everyday Life explores the wider implications of living with dyslexia/SpLD, which often goes far beyond reading and writing skills. Organisation is a major area of difficulty for people with dyslexia/SpLD, and this book aims to address the most commonly encountered problems. The authors draw on the latest scientific research, as well as their own experiences to provide expert guidance for problem-solving, time management, and organising workloads. Using mind maps, real-life examples, and helpful tips throughout, the book is written in a clear, dyslexia-friendly style, and will be an essential companion for dyslexia/SpLD support tutors, parents, and individuals.

Assessment and Treatment of Childhood Problems
A Clinician’s Guide

Carolyn S. Schroeder and Julianne M. Smith-Boydston

This highly accessible work, now thoroughly revised, has shown thousands of students and clinicians how to assess and treat children’s emotional and behavioral difficulties from a developmental perspective. The authors provide a sound understanding of typical development (ages 2–12) and the risk and protective factors for psychopathology. Chapters on common psychological disorders and family stressors describe the nature of each problem, review evidence-based treatments, and offer step-by-step guidelines for intervention, illustrated with helpful case examples. A comprehensive framework for assessing children and planning treatment is used throughout.

Effective Psychotherapists
Clinical Skills That Improve Client Outcomes

William R. Miller, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque

What is it that makes some therapists so much more effective than others, even when they are delivering the same evidence-based treatment? This instructive book identifies specific interpersonal skills and attitudes—often overlooked in clinical training—that facilitate better client outcomes across a broad range of treatment methods and contexts. Reviewing 70 years of psychotherapy research, the preeminent authors show that empathy, acceptance, warmth, focus, and other characteristics of effective therapists are both measurable and teachable.

Dyadic Data Analysis

David A. Kenny, PhD, Department of Psychological Sciences, University of Connecticut, Storrs, Deborah A. Kashy, William L. Cook, PhD, Maine Medical Center, Center for Psychiatry Research, Portland, ME

Interpersonal phenomena such as attachment, conflict, person perception, learning, and influence have traditionally been studied by examining individuals in isolation, which falls short of capturing their truly interpersonal nature. This book offers state-of-the-art solutions to this age-old problem by presenting methodological and data-analytic approaches useful in investigating processes that take place among dyads: couples, coworkers, parent and child, teacher and student, or doctor and patient, to name just a few.

Handbook of Medical Hallucinogens

Charles S. Grob and Jim Grigsby

This state-of-the-art handbook reviews promising applications of psychedelics in treatment of such challenging psychiatric problems as posttraumatic stress disorder, major depression, substance use disorders, and end-of-life anxiety. Experts from multiple disciplines synthesize current knowledge on psilocybin, MDMA, ketamine, and other medical hallucinogens. The volume comprehensively examines these substances’ neurobiological mechanisms, clinical effects, therapeutic potential, risks, and anthropological and historical contexts.

Intensifying Mathematics Interventions for Struggling Students

Diane Pedrotty Bryant

This key resource for K–12 educators offers a systematic guide to delivering Tier 2 and 3 math interventions within a multi-tiered system of support. The volume examines critical math areas in which many students have difficulty—early numeracy, time and money measurement, number combinations, fractions, word problem solving, algebra, and more. Leading experts describe relevant standards and show how to use data-based individualization to plan, monitor, and intensify instruction in each area.

Mindfulness for Adult ADHD

Lidia Zylowska and John T. Mitchell

Mindfulness has emerged as a valuable component of treatment for adults with attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD). This concise manual presents an evidence-based group intervention specifically tailored to the needs of this population. The Mindful Awareness Practices for ADHD (MAPs) program helps participants cultivate self-regulation of attention, emotions, and behavior, awareness of ADHD challenges, self-acceptance, and self-compassion. With a stepwise teaching approach and meditation periods that are shorter than in other mindfulness programs, MAPs is designed to optimize learning.

Mom Brain

Proven Strategies to Fight the Anxiety, Guilt, and Overwhelming Emotions of Motherhood—and Relax into Your New Self

Illyse Dobrow DiMarco, Founder and Director, North Jersey Center for Anxiety and Stress Management, Summit, NJ

Becoming a mother is a joyful rite of passage, but it can also bring overwhelming emotional upheaval, exhaustion, and self-doubt. And is it any wonder? Motherhood changes everything, right down to a woman’s brain chemistry. No one understands “mom brain” better than psychologist Illyse Dobrow DiMarco, a mother of two herself who specializes in treating women with young children. In this compassionate guide, Dr. Dobrow DiMarco shares science-based psychological strategies to help moms cope with common challenges and make peace with their transformed identity.

The Family Guide to Getting Over OCD

Reclaim Your Life and Help Your Loved One

A Clinician’s Guide

Jonathan S. Abramowitz, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill

When a loved one is trapped in an endless cycle of obsessions and compulsions, it’s a constant struggle for the whole family. It’s only natural to try to accommodate the sufferer’s behavior or help with rituals, even if that means turning everyone’s lives upside down. Throwing a lifeline to spouses, parents, and others, renowned psychologist Jonathan Abramowitz reveals that, all too often, these well-meaning attempts make OCD worse—and strain relationships to the breaking point. But there is another way.

Working with Adolescents

A Guide for Practitioners

Julie Anne Laser and Nicole Nicotera, PhD, MSW, LICSW, Graduate School of Social Work, University of Denver

Noted for its multisystemic–ecological perspective, this accessible text and practitioner resource has now been revised and expanded with 60% new material. The book provides a comprehensive view of adolescent development and explores effective ways to support teens who are having difficulties. The authors examine protective and risk factors in the many contexts of adolescents’ lives, from individual attributes to family, school, neighborhood, and media influences. Assessment and intervention strategies are illustrated with diverse case examples, and emphasize a social justice orientation. Useful pedagogical features include end-of-chapter reflection questions and concise chapter summaries.

Advances in Autoethnography and Narrative Inquiry

Reflections on the Legacy of Carolyn Ellis and Arthur Bochner
Edited by Tony E. Adams, Robin M. Boylorn and Lisa M. Tillmann
Series: International Congress of Qualitative Inquiry (ICQI) Foundations and Futures in Qualitative Inquiry
This book explores the substantive, field-defining and paradigm-changing work of Arthur Bochner and Carolyn Ellis. Scholars show through their writing and storytelling the influence of the work of Bochner and Ellis on both the field of autoethnography, and their individual research. Individually and collectively, Bochner’s and Ellis’ legacy extends beyond their home disciplines of communication and sociology, as well as beyond the boundaries of the United States. This collection highlights their contribution to the ethic, practice, and composition of autoethnography and narrative, both globally and on a deeply personal individual level.

Affective Movements, Methods and Pedagogies

Edited by Anne Harris and Stacy Holman Jones
What are the possibilities for understanding the role of performance in emerging theories such as affect, new materialism, posthumanism and post-qualitative research? Building on the idea that the power of theatre and performance lies in its ability to move beyond its own influence and traditional research paradigms, this edited text is concerned with not only the methods but also the theoretics of affect and performance. The chapters include work that models theoretical practices in the writing, and demonstrates how theorising affect and its qualitative research methods is itself a performative practice.

Cases and Stories of Transformative Action Research

Five Decades of Collaborative Action and Learning
John A. Bilorusky
Transformative Inquiry Through Action Research in Practice draws on author John Bilorusky’s lifetime experiences of conducting action research in real-world settings. The two volumes (this book and A Half Century of Living and Doing: Transformative Inquiry Through Action Research) comprehensively lay out the principles of and examine case studies in action research. In showcasing action research in educational, health, governmental and other settings, this book will be suitable for students coming to action research for the first time and for researchers wanting to widen their knowledge and experience of this method in practice.

Crafting Collaborative Research Methodologies

Leaps and Bounds in Interdisciplinary Inquiry
Christina Hee Pedersen
This book demonstrates a number of collaborative, visual and narrative methods that explore the promises and the ethical, relational complexities inherent in collaborative research. The book brings together the fruits of many years of work with interdisciplinary, collaborative research methodologies, showing the challenges and rewards inherent in the practice of real collaborative research. It represents a condensation and a reflexive exploration of knowledge (co)produced through innovation and experimentation in both research and teaching over more than three decades of the author’s experience. Suitable for all students of qualitative and collaborative methodology.

Critical Autoethnography

Intersecting Cultural Identities in Everyday Life

Edited by Robin M. Boylorn and Mark P. Orbe
Series: Writing Lives: Ethnographic Narratives
Critical Autoethnography: Intersecting Cultural Identities in Everyday Life, Second Edition, examines the development of the field of critical autoethnography through the lens of social identity. Contributors situate interpersonal and interpersonal experiences of gender, race, ethnicity, ability, citizenship, sexuality and spirituality within larger systems of power, oppression and privilege.

It is an excellent resource for undergraduate students, graduate students, educators, and scholars who are interested in autoethnography, interpersonal and intercultural communication, qualitative studies, personal narrative, cultural studies and performance studies.

Developing Grounded Theory

The Second Generation Revisited
Janice M. Morse, University of Utah, USA, Barbara Bowers, Kathy Charmaz, Adele E. Clarke, Juliet Corbin, Caroline Porr and Phyllis Noerager Stern
Series: Developing Qualitative inquiry
Grounded theory is the most popular genre of qualitative research used in the health professions and is widely used elsewhere in the research world. In this volume, six key grounded theory methodologists examine the history, principles, and practices of this method, highlighting areas in which different strands of the methods diverge. Chapters cover the work of Anselm Strauss, Barney Glaser, Leonard Schatzman, and the postmodern and constructivist schools. This volume will be ideal for courses on grounded theory that wish to show the ways in which it can be used in research studies.

Entanglement in the World’s Becoming and the Doing of New Materialist Inquiry

Bronwyn Davies

The book seeks to make a range of new materialist concepts accessible to researchers in the social sciences, and to work those theoretical possibilities through data of various kinds drawn from both the author’s research and autoethnographic experiences. This book works at the interface of writing-as-inquiry and the rich seam of conceptual possibilities in Deleuze, Barad, and new materialist philosophy. The powers of action, location and thought are entangled and emergent in new materialist inquiry. They can be difficult for researchers to mobilize in their own thinking, talking and action. This book will offer a bridge between the thinking and the doing of new materialist inquiry.

Finding Your Ethical Research Self
A Guidebook for Novice Qualitative Researchers

Martin Tolich, University of Otago, New Zealand and Emma Tumility

Finding Your Ethical Research Self introduces novice researchers to the need for ethical reflection in practice and gives them the confidence to use their knowledge and skill when, later as researchers they are confronted by big ethical moments in the field. The 12 chapters build on each other, but not in a linear way. Core ethical concepts like consent and confidentiality once established in the early chapters are later challenged. With numerous examples of ethical dilemmas and issues and questions and exercises to encourage self-reflection, this reflexive, learn-by-doing model of research ethics will be highly useful to the novice, undergraduate and postgraduate researcher.

Immersive Cartography and Post-Qualitative Inquiry
A Speculative Adventure in Research-Creation

David Rousell

This work expands the new and developing field of cartographic inquiry in qualitative and postqualitative research. Immersive cartography draws together diverse theories and practices from process philosophy, contemporary art, ecological aesthetics, ethnography, education, and the critical posthumanities. Detailed examples from real research projects are used to demonstrate specialized techniques for mapping, diagramming, activating, and mobilising theoretical concepts through collaborative inquiry, socially-engaged art, and pedagogical interventions in public space. Suitable for postgraduates and researchers in the social sciences, education and sociology.

Lessons on Aging and Dying
A Poetic Autoethnography

Ronald J. Pelias, Southern Illinois University, USA

Series: Writing Lives: Ethnographic Narratives
Lessons in Aging and Dying: A Poetic Autoethnography captures the experience of being elderly and facing the end of life. The book presents a collection of poems about life’s end accompanied with narrative commentary. Organised as seventy-three lessons, they can be read as personal curiosities, momentary realizations, farcical departures, embarrassing fears, therapeutic encounters, experiential truths, hopeful conjectures, and inevitable destinations. This text is particularly suitable for students and researchers in subjects such as relational and family communication, gerontology and end of life care, and performance studies.

Navigating the Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Terrain Across Disciplines
An Introductory Guide

Edited by Karin Murris, University of Cape Town, South Africa.

Series: Postqualitative, New Materialist and Critical Posthumanist Research
This accessible introductory guide introduces researchers of all disciplines and fields in higher education to key concepts and different ways of working and practice (doings) in the notoriously complex fields of postqualitative, new materialist and critical posthumanist research. The paradigm shift includes doing justice to already existing Indigenous knowledges, African and Eastern philosophies, and young children’s ontopolitics. The book concludes with examples of applied postqualitative research in practice.

Re-Reading Ishi’s Story

The Three Worlds of America’s Last Wild Indian

Norman K. Denzin, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, USA

This book is the fifth in the series by Norman K. Denzin - a sweeping, critical examination of representation of Native Americans and NA culture in art, film, television and popular culture. Using his well-recognized mix of dramatization, incisive cultural critique and sensitive reframing, Denzin recasts the story of the man dubbed ‘Ishi’ by Alfred Kroeber to examine the huge injustices perpetrated upon Native Californians, and how subsequent performance and interpretation reduced their stories - and Ishi’s - to show and pantomime, hiding the true nature of the treatment of Native Americans. Suitable for scholars and students of qualitative inquiry, anthropology and Native American Studies.

Scientometrics for the Humanities and Social Sciences

R. Sooryamoorthy

This important book presents the inherent potential for data mining and analysis of qualitative data in scientometrics. The author provides select cases of scientometric studies in the humanities and social sciences, explaining their research objectives, sources of data and methodologies. It illustrates how data can be gathered not only from prominent online databases and repositories but also from journals that are not stored in these databases. With the support of examples, the book shows how data on demographic variables can be collected to supplement scientometric data. The book has an increasing applicability to the study of the disciplines in the humanities and social sciences.

Systematic Methods for Analyzing Culture

A Practical Guide

H.J. François Dengah I, Jeffrey G. Snodgrass, Evan R. Polzer and William Cody Nixon

This book is a practical manual that provides step-by-step instruction for collecting and analyzing cultural data. It offers an early introduction into the suite of tools offered in cultural models analysis, including step-by-step guides and screenshots from MAXQDA, UCINET and Anthropac. Though based from within anthropological methods training, these methods of cultural data analysis from ethnographic studies can be widely applied within the social sciences, and will be of interest to undergraduate students and students in anthropology, communication studies, sociology and within research methods training.

Temporality in Qualitative Inquiry
Theories, Methods and Practices
Edited by Bryan C. Clift, Julie Gore, Stefanie Gustafsson, Sheree Bekker, Ioannis Costas Battle and Jenny Hatchard
This book provides conceptual and practical insights into temporal aspects of qualitative inquiry. A significant portion of qualitative research, if not its raison d'être, is to better understand human experience and the human condition. However, the explicit and/or collective challenges of time and temporal considerations in qualitative research, as yet remain relatively undocumented. Suitable for graduate students and researchers interested in qualitative inquiry, and in disciplines such as education, health research, sociology and communication studies.

The Lively Science
Remodeling Human Social Research
Michael Agar
This book represents the best of Michael Agar’s visionary work in the social sciences - how to make a research question, and answer it with the human in social science. With his usual uncompromising clarity and dry wit, Agar examines why human social science is still very definitely a science, and what that means in practice for researchers. With a new foreword by Michael Brown celebrating Agar’s enormous contribution to the methodology, The Lively Science is for all social science researchers, students and qualitative methodologists who believe in putting the ‘social’ back into social science.

The Birth of Ethics
Phenomenological Reflections on Life’s Beginnings
Michael van Manen
In this book, Michael van Manen explores these ethical moral complexities and conceptualizations of life’s beginnings. He delves into perennial and contemporary aspects of conception, pregnancy, and birth to present ethics as a fundamental phenomenon in the experiential encounter between parent and child. The Birth of Ethics: Phenomenological Reflections on Life’s Beginnings is an essential text not only for health professionals and researchers but also for parents, family members, and others who care and take responsibility for newborns in need of medical care.

The Art and Science of Embodied Research Design
Concepts, Methods and Cases
Edited by Jennifer Frank Tantia
The concept of embodiment, or the lived experience of the body, has become an important focus of scholarly attention across psychology, sociology, philosophy, and cultural studies. Addressing the inherent challenges of researching the lived experience of the body, this edited volume brings together experienced scholars who conduct and teach embodied research to and establish effective strategies for exploring experience through nonverbal communication, subjective sensory and proprioceptive states, and body-centered imagery. It represents a thorough and comprehensive resource for students conducting research using an embodied approach and for instructors that teach embodied inquiry.

The Pedagogy of Special Needs Education
Phenomenology of Sameness and Difference
Chizuko Fujita
Series: Phenomenology of Practice
The Pedagogy of Special Needs Education outlines how to understand the inner and behavioral lives of children with intellectual disability through the psychology and phenomenology of “stories” derived from the experiences of living with these children. This book can be used in courses related to special education programs, and in special needs curricula for children with developmental disabilities. It can also support childcare professionals who carry orthopedagogical responsibilities. Additionally, this book is valuable to scholars interested in a hermeneutic phenomenological approach to human science, professional practice issues, and qualitative research methods.

The Routledge Reviewer’s Guide to Mixed Methods Analysis
Edited by Anthony J. Onwuegbuzie and R. Burke Johnson
The Reviewer’s Guide for Mixed Methods Research Analysis is designed for evaluators of research manuscripts and proposals in the social and behavioral sciences, and beyond. It’s thirty-three uniquely structured chapters cover both traditional and emerging mixed methods data analysis, which neither junior nor veteran reviewers can be expected to know in detail. The book updates readers on each technique’s key principles, appropriate usage, underlying assumptions, and limitations. It thereby assists reviewers in offering constructive commentary on works they evaluate, and also serves as an indispensable author’s reference for preparing sound research manuscripts and proposals.
Theory and Methods for Public Pedagogy Research

Karen Charman and Mary Dixon

Theory and Methods for Public Pedagogy Research introduces promising new methods of public pedagogy research centered around transforming rather than explaining knowledge. The new methods are premised on a new theorisation of public pedagogy which recognises the educative agent. The agency of the public to speak, to be heard, to know is manifest as the educative agent speaks their knowledge and the researcher must be attentive to that speaking. This book will be of interest to researchers and students in the field of public education and teaching in a variety of social science and arts disciplines, and education.

Writing Strategies for the Education Dissertation

Diane Bennett Durkin

This book focuses on best practice in writing for the Education dissertation. It concentrates on the processes of writing as thinking. These processes account for the very necessary uncertainty, decision-making, brainstorming, draft writing, and revision experiences when one writes about something new. The book offers strategies for these processes, using writing and drawing on numerous real writing examples to help students invent, think through, write, rethink, and rewrite as they develop and present their innovations. Suitable for all doctoral students of Education and others looking for tips and advice on the best dissertation writing.

Writing the Self in Bereavement

A Story of Love, Spousal Loss, and Resilience

Reinekke Lengelle

Series: Writing Lives: Ethnographic Narratives

Reinekke Lengelle tells the story of her work and life partner, Frans Meijers, who develops a rare cancer and dies within seven months of his diagnosis. She speaks about how they openly faced his illness, how he made end of life choices, and how the poems she wrote became a means to stay close to Frans, and live well without him. In the final chapters, Reinekke makes an analysis of why writing this journey was important, what key lessons she felt that the bereavement process had to offer, how the writing-towards-transformation model she developed with Frans explains the process she goes through as she tells the story, and what other compelling research might follow.
